

I would say to you sons and daughters, I remind you, again, that there are sabers rattling and that there are loud voices coming out right now. Do not be troubled, do not be troubled for I have it in hand, says the Lord. I am the Lord God, I am the King, the Almighty God. There is none besides Me and none of this escapes Me.

So do not let fear enter your hearts by the things that are happening, even in your country this day. This is just the enemy stirring things up and it is not My time, says the Lord.

I am going to come down in My glory and I am going to use this to bring the prodigals back, says the Lord God. So, know, know that I am bringing the prodigals back. I ask, you, are you ready to receive them? Are you ready not to judge them?

For if you judge others, who are not following Me, they will never come to know Me, says the spirit of God. You need to walk in humility, to set aside your own ideas, and be careful who you are listening to. Who is influencing you? That makes you think, oh, well this person does that and this person does the other so they cannot enter My kingdom. That is wrong, says the spirit of God, that is not the way I look at things.

Do not be influenced by ungodly voices and some are voices in My kingdom that you are not meant to listen to. Listen to Me, says the spirit of God. It is more important than ever that you listen to Me, that I am your influence. Not your workers, not your friends, not whoever, Me, Me alone!

You can have friends but you need to judge what they are saying. If it contradicts Me, says the spirit of God, do not be fooled.

You are in a very touchy time, a very sensitive time. It is very important that you look to Me. Every day, you look to Me and be careful what you listen to. What you listen to could be influencing someone who is about to be drawn in. It might be a prodigal I am bringing home. You don't know, you don't have eyes to see everything. I am the God that sees all. I know whose hearts are ready.

If you are in a narrow minded, judgmental state, you will miss it. You will miss the opportunity and that prodigal may not come home because your judging them.

For I say to you today, the prodigals are coming home. I am bringing them home.

The question is: "Are you ready to receive them? Are you ready to let them in? Even if they don't look like you. They might look dirty, not presentable. That doesn't matter to Me. Did not I reach out to the lost, to the hopeless, to those that were cast out? That is who I Am, that is who I Am, says the Lord, and that is who you need to be as well.

So, be careful. Know that I have the victory. Don't be swayed by all the hubbub going on in the world. Listen to Me carefully and discern what I am speaking to you and accept those prodigals in, accept them in.

My angels are here. They are ready. They are My messengers. They are ready to gather in the harvest. But, you've got to be open to them and not judge them, says the spirit of God.
